Women Development Cell and IQAC have organised a webinar on, "A talk on Protective Laws for Women" to orient the students especially girl students and lady staff of the college. Outraging the modesty of women happens at a regular interval in society. To create awareness among the girls' students and lady staff is one of the intentions behind the organization of this programme. Under the Gender initiatives, boy and girl students should be equally educated about the uneven development of society over gender issues. Principal Dr Arvind Ubale was the chairperson of the programme and gave an introductory speech, and briefed that women should not be undermined at any cost. Half of the population should not be left in the lurch.

The speaker Mr Pushpak Raut briefly explained various protective laws and oriented all the participants. Despite various constitutional safeguards, women have been becoming objects of violence. For that patriarchal order is responsible for giving subordinate status in society. He has highlighted marital rape cases in society and explained the possible complications of martial law in the marriage institution. 210 Students joined through this google meet session. End of the lecture, there was a questioning and answering session. Many questions specially from the girl students about cyber crimes and snooping discussed elaborately and the speaker of the programme put light on all the questions in the gaze of law. The WDC chairman Prof. Vandana Bendale expressed a vote of thanks.
